Reconsider your definitions. We are prone to judge success by the index of our salaries or the size of our automobiles rather than by the quality of our service and relationship to mankind. --Martin Luther King, Jr.

The Japanese have phrase called "wabi-sabi" -- a feeling of appreciation for things whose wear and aging reveal lifeâ€™s impermanence. For example, if you have had a cup, table, or chair in your family for several generations, each chip or scratch is not an imperfection, but a memory, inviting you to reflect on all the others before you who held that cup or touched that table.

Be The Change:

Reconsider your definitions. Call up your grandparents or better yet, your friend's grandparents.
