

daily GOOD

The Earth is what we all have in common. --Wendell Berry

Bye Bye Plastic Bags

"Five years ago, two young women decided they were going to do something about the plastic problem on their island of Bali. And Bye Bye Plastic Bags was born. How young? So young one of them couldn't make it to our midweek interview. "She's at school," explained 18-year-old Melati Wijsen, talking about her 16-year-old sister Isabel. "She's just halfway through grade 11 and she's putting her focus more into graduating high school." Bali is part of the island nation of Indonesia, which is the world's second biggest polluter when it comes to marine plastic..."NPR shares more here.

Be The Change:

Note from the Editors: On October 29th, 2019 DailyGood inadvertently ran an article that was not a fit for our platform. We apologize for the oversight.

Learn more about Bye Bye Plastic Bags here.