Are we asking the right questions? Will our children be able to read the map we leave behind? --Anna Badkhen

Portholes
Anna Badkhen traces markers left in the Earth from the near and distant past, unspooling the narratives that thread through the imprints we leave on the planet, and what they foretell for the future.

Be The Change:
For more inspiration, check out this collection of Songline Paintings, "Stories Written in the Land."