

daily GOOD

Faith is not the clinging to a shrine but an endless pilgrimage of the heart.

--Abraham Joshua Heschel

Shrine

Tracey Schmidt performs her poem Shrine, an evocative poem about love, about self, and about fitting into the world. Her whole being becomes a shrine through which divisions between herself and the rest of the world recede and "then the love fits perfectly," and her life shines brilliantly.

Be The Change:

What sets your "shining life on fire"?