

daily GOOD

Without community, there is no liberation.
--Audre Lorde

3 Steps to Build Peace & Create Change

As the child of Holocaust survivors and a World War II refugee herself, peace builder Georgette Bennett was stunned by the human toll and tragedy of the Syrian civil war. She got to work, bringing together historical enemies to build an aid pipeline from Israel to Syria -- a feat many considered impossible, but she and her organization -- the Multi-faith Alliance for Syrian refugees -- has since helped millions. Through this inspiring story of unlikely partnership, Bennett shares three steps for creating change and invites all of us to take action when we see someone in need.

Be The Change:

Is there a situation or person in need in your own community to whom you could apply Bennett's 3 step process? By applying her pragmatic steps to find an entry point, find a gap and do something to fill it, we can all be the change we wish to see.