

11 Unbelievable Places that are Hard to Believe Really Exist by Bored Panda

Our world is so full of wonders that new and amazing places are discovered every day, be that by professional photographers or amateurs. Different geographical locations, climatic conditions and even seasons offer the widest variety of natural wonders: pink lakes, stunning lavender or tulip fields, breath-taking canyons and mountains, and other places you can hardly believe actually exist!

Some of the pictures in this collection will be of all natural sights you can find while traveling around the world, while the others have experienced human interference – but even in these cases, the result of such collaboration is spectacular. The Japanese learned how to tame thousands of orchids and form a romantic tunnel out of them; another one was formed all the way in Ukraine by a passing train; and what eventually ends up as hot tea in our mugs, first grows in stunning tree fields in Asia.

No wonder that traveling in one of the best forms of recreation – even looking at these pictures takes your mind to far away places... And yes, all those of those places are real!

Tunnel of Love, Ukraine

Image credits: Oleg Gordienko

Tulip Fields in Netherlands

Image credits: Allard Schager

Salar de Uyuni: One of the World's Largest Mirrors, Bolivia

Image credits: dadi360

Hitachi Seaside Park, Japan

Image credits: nipomen2 | sename777

Mendenhall Ice Caves, Juneau, Alaska

Image credits: Kent Mearig

Red Beach, Panjin, China

Image credits: MJiA

Bamboo Forest, Japan

Image credits: Yuya Horikawa, Tomoaki Kabe

Street in Bonn, Germany

Image credits: Adas Meliauskas

Wisteria Flower Tunnel in Japan

Image credits: imgur.com | mindphoto.blog.fc2.com

Black Forest, Germany

Image credits: Andy Linden

Fields of Tea, China

Image credits: Unknown