Let everyone sweep in front of his own door, and the whole world will be clean. --Goethe

Brazilian photographer Sebastio Salgado believes that an image can inform and transform; and he's travelled to five continents to show how. Fast action photography is easy these days but Salgado captures the slower, more decisive motions that produce millions of refugees in Africa, Asia and the Balkans or the millions that move to packed cities of Asia and Latin America due to lack of work ... a portrait of "the reorganization of the human family" caused by war, famine and whiplashings of the global economy:
