

daily GOOD

The single most important thing right now is to listen to the earth --Dahr Jamail

Living in the Time of Dying

"This recent film, Living in the Time of Dying, made by the Australian film-maker Michael Shaw in response to his own dawning awareness of species extinction, asks bluntly: "Are humans likely to become extinct?" To find answers, Michael sold his home and with his partner Michelle Walker set off on a journey around the world to interview four people who have been speaking on the issue. The result is an unexpectedly beautiful and life-affirming film."

Be The Change:

What does listening to the Earth mean to you? For more inspiration, you can check out the film, "Living in the Time of Dying," here.